DETAILED ACTION

Lack of Unity

1. This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-40, are drawn to a method for generating an identification value for identifying an electronic message in a MAC in which data representing the length L of the message is concatenated to the output or to an intermediate result.

Group II, claim(s) 41-47, are drawn to a method for generating an identification value for identifying an electronic message using a delta-universal hash function and a sum of the resulting number and a further block of data.

2. The inventions comprising group I and group II are technically distinct from each other because of the following reasons:

a. The technical subject-matter of group I differs from that of group II because group I recites a method containing data which represent the length L of the message and concatenating the data which is represented of the message length to an output or to one of the intermediate results.

b. The technical subject-matter of group II differs from that of group I because the method as recited uses an auxiliary hash function having a compression rate which is different (e.g., delta) from the compression rate of the first hash function. In addition to the auxiliary hash function, a sum and an additional block of data is used in the identification method.

3. Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and/or examination burden if restriction were not required because at least the following reason(s) apply:

the inventions require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes /subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search strategies or search queries).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

4. The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

5. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
